TOWN COUNCIL.

Council Chamber,

Oct. 8th, 1913

Council met in regular session on Monday evening Mayor W. A. Steacy in the chair.

Present—Reeve Osborne and Councillors Alexander, Walters, Graham, Carson and Dickinson.

The minutes of the last regular session were read and confirmed.

A communication was read from Brent Noxon & Co., Toronto, stating they had heard that Napanee had some debentures to offer for sale. If the town wished to let them go at 91½ they thought they could place them.

The clerk informed the council that he had answered the communication informing the parties that the debentures were not ready for the market, and at any rate he did not think the town would be agreeable to the offer made.

Communication ordered filed.

Mr. G. F. Ruttan, in a letter to the council, complained about a slaughter house, the property of Mr. H. Milling, which had been erected on Robin's hill, within the town limits, and near the residence of Mr. W. J. Foster. The law regarding the erection of slaughter houses, requires that they must be erected at least 200 yards distant from any dwelling, and 70 feet from any public street. These conditions, Mr. Ruttan claimed, had not been observed, and consequently there had been an infraction of the Public Health Act.

The Clerk informed the council that he had written Mr. Milling, calling his attention to the complaints of Mr. Ruttan, and informing him that he must be guided in the matter by the Public Health Act.

On motion of Reeve Osborne and Councillor Dickinson the communication was referred to the local Board of Health.

A communication was read from Mr. Howard G. Carter, Detroit, Mich., stating he was interested in building a Condensed Milk Factory in Ontario, and desired to ascertain the possibilities of success for an undertaking of this character in this community.

The Clerk informed the council that he had answered the above letter and had given the particulars asked for as

"THE BAD BOY."

Lecture by Dr. J. L. Hughes.

DEAR EDITOR:—I was asked to re- ply to our eminent friend of education, but I declined. Will you now permit me to offer a comment?

By this time the teacher will have digested the material handed out. What I have to say will serve as a sort of after-dinner mint. When we consider the bill of fare, we see that some of the sauce was only for the un- offending public who were INVITED to attend. Col. the Hon. Sam's—(my brother)—bugle song "The officers wives got puddings and pies, but the privates' wives get skillies" must have been ringing in Bro. Jim's ear, and he thought he was addressing a non- cultured crowd—a crowd who wanted Jim to be our Moses.

The pedagogical principles laid down by Dr. Hughes in his talk on "The Bad Boy," were no doubt much need- in this, as in Another place in Ontario, which province, as Mr. Hughes says, has the poorest system of education on the continent. As I write I find my- self asking the question, "What kind of a Minister of Education have we?" "How is it God's Jim has not seen to it?" Is the shot fired in Napanee not needed in Toronto, the Good?" Could it have been that Dr. Hughes was only talking in Napanee to imperson- ate "The Bad Boy?"

Mr. Hughes' idea of bad is hardly what the ancient "locust" preacher held. Neither is it quite what any- body else holds; it is just "Jim's" own idea of bad. And it wasn't too bad so long as he did not offend by forgetting his own word that the parts of lectures and sermons should be well "jointed." I wonder if it hurt our learned friend to stumble himself while he warned others of the danger.

People of Napanee have a reputation for sound and fine feeling; likewise has the offending secretary of the Teachers' Association. I have for- gotten whether every part of her letter was made the subject of sarcasm.

Will anyone tell of evidence of a child, the world over, other than that child called "Jim," who could remem- ber things of its creeping age? Tak- ing Mr. Hughes' verbatim, how did truancy stand in Toronto forty years ago as compared with truancy there- now, under improved conditions? He said that when the attendance to-day is approximately 60,000 there is not so much as when 40 years ago there about 5,000 pupils. Verbatim: It was ten times, yes one hundred times, yes a thousand times worse 40 years ago than now. Well suppose there are only five (no more than five mind you) truants in Toronto's 60,000 to-day, what was it 40 years ago when it was "a thousand times" worse. My calcu- lation would make the truants as numerous as the whole of the pupils. Regarding the pedagogical principle involved in that, let us hope that the principle of the apostolic succession won't hold regarding it.

Somebody said Moses needed Aaron; and another who wouldn't be out- witted said "Yes, and God needed "Jim."

Street gossip says that Rev. Mr.

Somebody said Moses needed Aaron; and another who wouldn't be outwitted said "Yes, and God needed "Jim."

Street gossip says that Rev. Mr. Sellery got a subject for a sermon, (and he didn't like to preach it before Dr. Hughes) the subject: "God and Bad Jim."

But the "locust" thought of the address was that on "militarism." I am afraid it would breed "grasshopper" soldiers for "my brother's" military camp in our second century of Peace.

A. L.—An Ex-Teacher.

P. S.—Some exciting street gossip—A "kindling" storm struck Napanee simultaneously with "The Bad Boy,"—a bolt from the blue struck the meeting place of the Teachers,—it ripped things down—not up—hitting first the Secretary—she has not recovered yet—damaged a pillar of favorable prejudice, just missed our own two inspectors, stunned the Collegiate Head and killed the officiating clergyman—and it was "some" kill)—and set Lucifer's fire around some "locus" preachers, and finally the storm wasted its concealed fury on the University—whence knowledge comes—But "knowledge isn't power." Power comes from that innate thing we nickname "Jim." And when all was over one man, presumably (?) shocked to insanity said that he now knew that Balaam's ass could speak.

Increase in the Price of Choice Grade Brings $8.

TORONTO, Oct. 7.—The live stock market here yesterday. Market values advanced generally 50 cents to 75 cents hundredweight. It was the first market after the passing of the tariff, which put live stock on the free list, and as the Stock Yards, with higher prices are aggressive rivals of Toronto buyers held out for sharp advances or lose the trade. Indeed best Canadian steers were shipped to from Ontario points, and from $7.50 to $8 yesterday, what was paid here for the class.

"I'll pay what I gave last week. Then you'll not get them."

This is a typical dialogue that indicates the character of the market throughout the morning. Up to noon the number of sales were few. Commission men claimed they had their orders from the market and could not sell under the price given above. Some choice beef port steers were offered, with 1,400 pounds each, and brought $7.50 to $8 per hundredweight the same class appeared on the market last they sold at $7.25 top and that was just a few days. Medium weight handy choice popular for the household, were higher in about the same proportion selling at from $7.25 to $7.75. Heifers brought $6.50 to $6.75, cows to medium at $4.75 to $5.00. These figures may puzzle the consumer, who is not a cattle dealer, of these bullocks yield when from 54 to 58 pounds of pounds live weight. This means on the basis of an advance cents live weight the consumer have to pay about double amount, or 1-1-2 cents, per pound. Add this to what he pays now is a serious matter.

Momentous Election in China Results In His Appointment.

PEKIN, China, Oct. 7.—One of the most important events in the history of China—the election of a President of the new republic, took place here yesterday. The members of both Houses of Parliament were called together to cast their votes for a chief executive, to hold office for a term of five years, and the greatest interest in what was to China a novel proceeding was manifested in all parts of the empire.

When the united Houses of Parliament came together yesterday morning, the register recorded that 750 representatives of the people were present to take part in the historic proceedings.

The first ballot took a considerable time, owing to the fact that the deputies and Senators were not familiar with the proceedings. When the voting was concluded, it was found that Provisional President Yuan Shikai had been given 471 votes, and Tsai Yuan Heng, 153, while twenty other candidates, including Dr. Wu Ting-fang, former Chinese Minister at Washington, and Dr. Sun Yat Sen, the leader of the Republican movement, had each received a few votes.

Language is thought by empire to be more important than battleships or armies."

HIGHWAYMAN CAUGHT

Artillerymen and Civilians En- gage in Thrilling Chase.

Two Men Hold Up Paymaster of the American Velvet Co. and Take $16,000—Booty Is Recovered and Pursuits of Miscreants Which Fol- lows Is Participated In by Hun- dreds of Armed Men.

STONINGTON, Conn., Oct. 7.— Skirmishing through the woods in the northern part of this town last night, United States coast artillerymen cap- tured a man who is believed to be one of the two masked highwaymen who early in the day with drawn revolvers, held up Carl A. Koelb, paymaster of the American Velvet Co., and took from him a satchel containing $16,- 000 in coin and bills.

The booty was quickly recovered from a hole under a wall into which the bag had been tossed. Then the pursuit of the two bandits began, first by a posse of townsmen who took the trail of the men, and then by 200 soldiers, who were in the neighborhood for field exercises. The artillerymen went at the task in earnest, going out in extended order and finally rushing through a ceme- tery, in which it was thought the band- its were at bay. The men had escap- ed, however, and the skirmish line swept onward until it was deep in "Witches' Woods," in a wild section off the town. Occasionally a soldier would get a glimpse of the quarry and the pursuers would sweep onward again. The artillerymen were followed by groups of citizens and farmers —most of the latter armed with guns —while about mid-afternoon 300 male employes of the velvet company were released from work to join in the general scamper across the fields and through the brush.

Darkness set in and the soldiers were making their way back through Charles Davis' woods when a party of them ran into a civilian wearing a soldier's overcoat. He was taken in charge and escorted into town and turned over to Patrolman O'Connell, who put him in the lockup. The man declined to answer questions as to his identity. He is about 25 years of age.

The second bandit escaped, and it is believed he is traveling north- ward. The men apparently planned the hold-up with considerable care. They had not anticipated that sol- diers, who have been here for a fort- night's field work, would be close at hand. The place of the hold-up was on a bend in the road, and conditions on either side were good for making the attack.

JUST A PLAIN LIAR?

Murderer Spencer's Crimes Are Not Corroborated.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—Of the nine- teen murders Henry Spencer, slayer of Mrs. Mildred Allison Rexroat, swore he committed, the police last night after investigating his alleged crimes in various cities were able to fix upon him only one murder, or possibly two. Captain Halpin, chief of the detec- tive bureau, announced his conviction that Spencer, in giving his long, cir- cumstantial confession of crime, was a consummate falsifier.

Four of the murders he says he committed were perpetrated while Spencer was in the Illinois State Peni- tentiary at Joliet. Of twelve of the alleged murders the police in this city and other cities have no record. In Famous Alaskan Gold Camp Visited by Storm.

NOME, Alaska, Oct. 7.—Nome has been almost destroyed by a storm. The south side of Front street is gone. The Sandspit is gone. Two miles of territory next to the sea was devastated. No lives were lost.

The storm that Sunday night be- gan beating in from Behring Sea was the worst ever known here. Men and women worked all night in the icy water to save their household effects. The electric light plant was wrecked and telephone service cut off. The loss is estimated at a million and a half dollars.

There will be much suffering and outside help will be required. Winter is at hand and it will be impossible to get in supplies needed.

The steamships Victoria and Cor- win, which were lying in the road- sted, ran to the open sea and escaped damage. All the small boats on the beach were destroyed. Five hundred houses have been demolished, and more are falling.

Nome, the famous gold camp on Behring Sea, the most northerly city in the world, was built on a sandy sea beach. In front of the town there is an anchorage for ships, but steam- ers do not make a landing. Cargoes and passengers are landed at an aerial tramway station in deep water. The principal part of the town, which a dozen years ago had a population of 20,000, is on the east side of Snake River, with a finger extending to the west along a narrow sandspit. This sandspit was rich in gold dust and the earlier settlers built their cabins there.

The summer population of Nome is about 4,000, and in winter 2,000 re- main, the others coming out on steamships that leave late in October. One steamship is yet to leave Seattle for Nome.

It will be possible to send revenue cutters to Nome to deliver supplies and take away needy persons who wish to leave.

Captain Halpin, chief of the de- tective bureau, announced his conviction that Spencer, in giving his long, circumstantial confession of crime, was a consummate falsifier.

Four of the murders he says he committed were perpetrated while Spencer was in the Illinois State Penitentiary at Joliet. Of twelve of the alleged murders the police in this city and other cities have no record. In one case described by Spencer police records show that a body was recovered, but that the detectives have as yet established no connection between Spencer and the crime.

"Except for possibly two murders Spencer's weird story of killing people by hammering in their skulls and sinking their bodies in lakes seems pure fabrication," said Captain Halpin last night. "His imagination, stimulated by drugs, poured out one of the most fantastic tales of murder that has ever come from a man whose mind is given to dreams of crime."

PANAMA IS SHAKEN.

Earthquakes Continue In the Interior of the Republic.

PANAMA, Oct. 7.—The series of earthquakes continues in the interior of the republic. Advice received yesterday morning from Tonosi, a town in the province of Los Santos, say that two hills have been levelled and many houses destroyed by big fissures in the earth. A church tower at Penonome and some houses have been razed, and similar damage has been done in the town of Agua Dulce. A feeling of apprehension prevails on the isthmus. The seismograph shows a continuation of slight shocks, which, it is thought, may be of serious import.

The Miraflores and Pedro Miguel locks will be tested on Oct. 11, when the first dredge is scheduled to pass through them.

That Five Per Cent. Discount.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 7.—Various interpretations of the five per cent. rebate provided by the tariff law for imports in American bottoms, are being taken up by President Wilson and the experts of the State and Treasury Departments.

The President told callers yesterday that the intent of the framers of the provision merely was to give a five per cent. discount to imports coming in American ships from countries with which the United States had no special treaty arrangements.

Borden Entertains Samuel.

OTTAWA, Oct. 7.—Rt. Hon. Herbert Samuel, the British Postmaster-General, arrived in Ottawa yesterday morning and he had a conference with Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Canadian Postmaster-General, yesterday afternoon in regard to number of questions, the most important being the subject of cheaper cable rates. This afternoon Mr. Samuel will address the Canadian Club, and to-night Premier Borden will tender him a dinner, which will be attended by all the cabinet Ministers.

arrival of the Australian warships. Mr. Millen, the Minister of Defence, said last night that supposing the intelligence to be officially confirmed it would require considerable justification, and be received with deep regret. It is declared that the agreement of 1909 has not been carried out by the other Country, and that Australia ought to know what are the intentions of the Imperial Government, what it thinks of the needs of defence in the Pacific generally, and what it will do to get those needs. An inter-Dominion conference is suggested if the Imperial Government persists in its refusal to call a conference, but it is hoped that the necessity for this may not arise on account of the harm it might do to the cause of Imperial unity. The political instability at present existing here is not regarded as a justification for the Home Government's attitude in opposing a conference which was approved and strongly urged by the Fisher Government. The hope is expressed on all sides that the Imperial Government will reconsider its decision.

NEWS REASSURING.

Captured Missionaries Believed To Be Unharmd.

PEKIN, China, Oct. 7.—A message dated Oct. 3 was received yesterday at Stang Yangfu, in the Province of Hupeh, from Rev. Christian Stokstad, and Rev. Mr. Johnson, the two American missionaries, trying to negotiate with the Chinese bandits for the release of the American and Norwegian missionaries held in captivity by the bandits at Tsaoyang. It says that three white women and two children are at the bandits' headquarters and have not been harmed, while the men are believed to be living.

The message appears to discredit the report that the little son of Rev. Dr. Fauske and Mrs. Fauske has been killed.

Rev. C. Stokstad and Rev. Mr. Johnson express the hope that the force of 1,800 troops round Tsaoyang will be able to hold the bandits until reinforcements arrive. The bandits number about 1,000, of whom half are mounted.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The American says: D. S. Curry, a wealthy retired business man of Winnipeg, Man., and a former city official of that place, has been fleeced out of $64,000 by "wire tappers" in this city. It was reported to the police Sunday. Mr. Curry, who is 65 years old, has identified the pictures of some of the old Gondorf gang as the men who fleeced him.

Mr. Curry met the sharpers in West Baden, Ind.

Rights Not Violated.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 7.—None of Harry K. Thaw's treaty rights as an American citizen were violated when Canadian authorities forcibly deported him a few weeks ago.

That was the ruling yesterday of Solicitor Joseph W. Folk of the State Department, who says that the Department would not be warranted in making any representation to the British Government, as requested by Thaw.

Fire Does Heavy Damage.

PERTH, Oct. 7.—At four o'clock yesterday morning fire destroyed the large stable belonging to the Imperial Hotel. The flames spread rapidly and completely destroyed the barn and contents, including a valuable horse belonging to Mr. W. W. Echlin. The loss is estimated at between eight and ten thousand dollars, partly covered by insurance.

The First Reporter.

The modern reporter harks back to the reign of Queen Anne and to the unknown scribe who attempted to tell the public the secrets of her parliament. He had a hard time of it, for parliament wished to keep its secrets to itself. In 1728 an order was passed "that it is an indignity to and a breach of the privilege of the house for any person to presume to give in written or printed newspapers any account or minute of the debates or proceedings; that upon discovery of the authors, printers or publishers of any such newspapers this house will proceed against the offenders with the utmost severity." During the famous Wilkes case in 1772 the reporters won the victory which they have since held without dispute.—New York American.

A Dish of Tea.

"Dish" throughout the eighteenth century was a colloquialism for cup. In fashionable houses at first, and for long, tea was drunk from a cup without a handle brought from China. The vessel was termed a dish. When the Chinese cup was first copied by English potters, the convenience of a handle was added. The saucer also was brought from China. It received the name because of its resemblance to the English saucer, a platter in which sauce was served. The familiar gibe, "saucer eyes," was originally inspired by the saucer saucer long before Lord Arlington gave the first tea party in England in Arlington house, where Buckingham palace stands, at the restoration period.—London Chronicle.

Clearing Up History.

THE ISSUES HAVE CHANGED

CHATEAUGUAY AND EAST MIDDLESEX HAVE CONCRETE FACTS TO VOTE ON

The issue to be faced by the electors of Chateauguy and East Middlesex is very different to that which was adjudicated upon in the elections of September, 1911. To the extent that it is changed it has weakened the Conservative cause and strengthened that of the Liberals. The hypocrisy of the Tory arguments and methods in 1911 has been thoroughly exposed, while the course of the Borden Government has in two years completely falsified every promise made by them previous to the elections, with one solitary exception, that of the Agricultural Aid Bill. This, however, was founded upon the report of the Technical Education Commission, appointed by the Laurier Government and in itself was simply an elaboration of the policy of Hon. Sydney Fisher during his fifteen years as Minister of Agriculture. The bill was so strongly endorsed by the Liberals that they compelled the unwilling Government to accept the principal of the division of the fund pro rata amongst the Provinces and the expenditure of the money by the Provincial Governments themselves.

TORY VOLTE FACE.

Since September, 1911, the Tory position has been completely reversed. Their policy during the general election was to shout Imperialism and denounce Reciprocity throughout the English speaking Provinces, and to denounce Imperialism and the Laurier Naval policy in Quebec Province. This chicanery was not openly practiced but it has since been absolutely proven by Mr. Bourassa that the anti-naval, anti-Imperialist campaign of the Nationalists in Quebec, which robbed the Liberals of sixteen seats, was secretly financed by the Tory party.

England and got Winston Churchill to supply him with some good rotund sentences. He conceived the "Emergency" on the spot; started to imagine red ink nightmares of thunder and lightning raging on the horizon and storms which threatened to break up the Empire with fury and disaster. Proudly he brought back his hybrid infant and presented it to the country with a demand for $35,000,000, cash.

Now Mr. Borden must be judged, not by his promises of 1911, but by his utter failure of performance during two years. He must be judged by his secret knowledge of the infamous Nationalist alliance and his willingness to win office by deliberate deception. He must be judged by his breach of Nationalist pledges. He must be judged by his bogus emergency which has just been completely exploded by the friendly tariff relations between England and Germany and the complete break-up of the British anti-German fleet in the North Sea. He must be judged by his neglect to reduce the tariff so as to give some relief to the consumers, suffering by the high cost of living; he must be judged by the inordinate extravagance of his administration, which increases the public debt in spite of the greatest revenues on record; he must be judged by his refusal to give the promised Civil Service reform, and by his acquiescence in the most relentless campaign for the dismissal of the Liberals in the public service that Canada has ever seen. He must be judged by his systematic determination to force Parliament to rob the Provinces of their control of highways and to retain to himself the handling of the money to be provided under the Highways Aid Bill. He must be judged by his refusal to fulfill his promise of Senate reform and the fact that he has not only hastened to fill every vacancy with Tories, but is planning to increase the representation in the Senate by nearly a dozen so as to get more of his party supporters in the Red Chamber. He must be judged by the unfair manner in which he dragged Parliament into adopting the "gag" closure rules.

It is useless to continue further. On whatever ground of public policy or public virtue the Borden Government may be judged it must be found wanting. It is for the people of Chateauguy and East Middlesex to give the verdict, to assure the Dominion that Canada's pulse beats strongly and that healthy Canadians will not tolerate such grave departures from every standard of public honesty and decency as they have had to blush for during the past two years.

IS NO STRANGER IN CHATEAU.

WILL NOT SEND BLONDIN. PREMIER BORDEN'S NATIONALIST DEPUTY SPEAKER WILL BE KEPT OUT OF EAST MIDDLESEX.

Mr. Borden should send his friend Blondin, the Nationalist whom he made Deputy Speaker of Parliament, to assist in the Tory campaign in East Middlesex. It would prove of interest to the people there to meet a French Canadian Nationalist supporter of Mr. Borden's. Mr. Blondin would greatly interest them if he would say as he did to the people of St. Louis de Blandford on October 21st, 1910. "You are intimidating the people and adding that we must contribute always and everywhere to the defence of that protector of our constitutional liberty: BUT WE WILL NOT BE MADE TO FORGET THAT IN 1837 IT WAS NECESSARY TO BORE HOLES IN IT (the Union Jack) IN ORDER TO BREATHE THE ATMOSPHERE OF LIBERTY. The English have never done anything for the French Canadians. We do not owe them anything. French Canadians have nothing to care about the other Provinces upon this Naval Question.

That speech was made during the Nationalist campaign which was secretly endorsed by Mr. Borden and paid for out of the Conservative chest. It should prove interesting in East Middlesex.

THE CUCKOOS VINDICATED.

One Slander About Their Being Bad Parents Disproved.

It has been asserted many times that cuckoos are exceedingly bad parents, but investigation does not prove this. As is well known, the cuckoo of various species intrusts the hatching of its eggs and the rearing of its young to other birds. Despite this it is authoritatively declared that both parents continue to be interested in their eggs and spend their time in their neighborhood until the young birds have their feathers. The hen cuckoo watches the bird in whose nest she proposes that the usurper shall be reared until it has started sitting. She then takes her own egg from the ground into her claws and flies to the chosen nest. From this she drives the legitimate owner, who, in the attempt to defend its property, occasionally causes the cuckoo to let fall its egg. Nine times out of ten, however, the intruder contrives to put its precious burden into the nest, and to make room for it by pushing out one or two of the other eggs.

In due course the evicted bird returns to the nest and, not suspecting the substitution which has taken place, sits. Meantime the cuckoo billets her other eggs—sometimes as many as five—on other birds in the neighborhood, never putting more than one egg in each nest, as she knows full well that if two of her youngsters were together they would injure each other. When two cuckoo's eggs are found in the same nest it is certain that they have been left there by two hen cuckoos. Each day the cuckoos visit the various nests containing their eggs.

The hatching of the cuckoo's eggs takes from 12 to 13 days and the young bird is scarcely out of the shell when it is making ferocious demands for food. For two days it is helpless, but on the third day is extraordinarily active. As soon as it is able to do so it pushes the other eggs out of the nest. Should these eggs have been hatched it forces itself under the young birds and by flapping its wings flings them out. Then, having the nest to itself, it clamors for an enormous quantity of food, with

THE GOLDEN HORSESHOE

That Was the First Order Four This Country.

How many persons have ever of the Order of the Golden Horse the first order founded in America.

In 1724, when Virginia explored from the Atlantic into the west, few of her colonists had the Blue Ridge or the Alleghani full of dangers from savages at beasts and so full of natural ties was the passage of these heights that Governor Spotswood went out to discover a pass, took the expedition as so hazardous took with him a guard of "gentlemen and pioneers," armed carrying provisions. These passed with great hardships and returned after the government the name of King George rocks on the highest peak.

He then constituted the society of the Golden Horseshoe, man who had scaled this high peak made a member of it, and when he presented a golden horseshoe the side was inscribed in Latin, Pleases Him to Cross Mountain.

Any man thereafter who could that he had read with his own denounce Imperialism and the Laurier Naval policy in Quebec Province. This chicanery was not openly practiced but it has since been absolutely proven by Mr. Bourassa that the anti-naval, anti-Imperial campaign of the Nationalists in Quebec, which robbed the Liberals of sixteen seats, was secretly financed by the Tory party and that hysteical "Empire saver" Sir Hugh Graham. Mr. Bourassa has also proven that there was a secret compact by which the Tories agreed not to put up candidates in Quebec where Nationalists were running and to support the Nationalist candidates with the money and votes. This fact is so completely proven that even Mr. Borden's Ministers dare not deny it. Mr. Borden and his colleagues thus become responsible for the wild and disloyal utterances of the Nationalists, and responsible for their promises to the people of Quebec. The French Canadian electors were told "Defeat the Laurier Government and you will defeat the Laurier Naval policy," and they were promised that if Mr. Borden should win the day nothing would be done to aid in Empire Naval defence without an appeal to the people either by plebiscite or by an election.

Every one of these promises have been broken in cold blood. Nearly all the Nationalist members of Parliament have with cynical indifference repudiated the principles upon which they were elected and have sold themselves as servile followers of the Borden-Rogers-Pelletier coalition. The promise to oppose any Imperial Naval Aid scheme has been thrown into the Tory Dust heap where it lies with the promise of a plebiscite before anything was done. The location is familiar to Hon. F. D. Monk, who also occupies a position in the Tory discard, owing to a belated twinging of conscience in this matter.

Can the people of Chateauguay forget these things? Can they trust a Government which has been so utterly recreant to its trust and so brutally confident that it can cover the bitter pill of official wrongdoing with the sugar-coating of public works and public bribes?

Can the electors of East Middlesex forget the criminal double dealing which urged them to save the Empire by defeating Reciprocity when the same political "patriots" were sending immense sums to finance the disloyal campaign in Quebec? If they can condone such conduct it will be a dark day for Canada, when the people put partizan advantage so far ahead of political honor.

HAS COME INTO THE OPEN. COUNTRY CAN NOW JUDGE GOVERNMENT ON ITS OWN BAD RECORD.

When Mr. Borden made his campaign in 1911 he had not hatched his still-born emergency. He had been rushed into his unholy alliance with the Nationalists with the sole idea of defeating Laurier at any cost with a Micawber-like confidence that something would turn up later by means of which he could sneak out of the effects of this criminal compact. The British Admiralty helped him to this solution. Mr. Borden went to England to bring the people of Chateauguay and East Middlesex to give the verdict, to assure the Dominion that Canada's pulse beats strongly and that healthy Canadians will not tolerate such grave departures from every standard of public honesty and decency as they have had to blush for during the past two years.

IS NO STRANGER IN CHATEAUGUAY.

HON. MR. FISHER'S RECORD OF THIRTY YEARS OF PUBLIC SERVICE SETTLES THAT.

The Tory Press of Quebec has fallen back upon a very shallow expedient, having no constructive record to show for the Borden Government during its two years of office, and not daring to refer to the many pre-election promises which have been broken. They started to abuse Hon. Sydney Fisher as a "stranger" in Chateauguay. Hon. Sydney Fisher has been in the public service of the Dominion for over thirty years. For fifteen years he represented the Province of Quebec in the Laurier Government as the most capable Minister of Agriculture the Dominion ever had. As such he was equally a representative of the French speaking Roman Catholics and French speaking Protestants, and he served all equally well. His public service and conspicuous work made him a citizen of all Quebec as of all Canada.

Can it be imagined that a man with such a record could be a "stranger" in Chateauguay? That may be Tory doctrine but it could never be good Liberal or Canadian doctrine.

AN UNHAPPY CHOICE.

Which will the good Conservatives of East Middlesex prefer, the Prince Albert "Homestead" deal by which Hon. Mr. Rogers presented the Tory Whip of the Saskatchewan Legislature with seventy acres of Prince Albert city blocks for $10—land which within a few weeks was sub-divided and put on the market at $375,000—or the Dorval Militia site deal, by which Col the Hon. Sam Hughes allowed a party friend to make a profit of $65,000 in sixteen days?

The Liberals of East Middlesex, however, may rest easy in one respect. Hon. Mr. Rogers will not dare to bring in his strong arm gang, which bullied, arrested, jailed and half-starved Liberal workers in the Macdonald bye-election.

MINISTERS ARE CAREFUL.

It is understood that Hon. Louis Coderre will not engage friend Tan Marsil to organize an impersonation gang for Chateauguay. Up to date Hon. Mr. Rogers has not sent Sir Rodolphe Forget there with promises of Government railways. Forget proved a frost in Richelieu, and Hon. Mr. Rogers is doing his own promising for Chateauguay.

WHT PREMIER BORDEN WILL NOT SAY.

Rt. Hon. R. L. Borden should go to Chateauguay and discuss the Navy, repeating his statement of December, 1910 when he said that if elected to form a Government: "I will appeal to Parliament for immediate and effective aid, and if Parliament did not give that immediate and effective aid I would appeal from Parliament to the people of the country."

Mr. Borden repeated that promise at the banquet which greeted his return from England in September, 1912, and he again repeated it when he introduced his Naval Aid Bill in Parliament on December 5th, 1912.

Dare he repeat it in Chateauguay, when for nearly a year Parliament has refused him that "immediate and effective," $35,000,000 he demanded, and he has failed to carry out his promise to appeal to the people?

young bird is scarcely out of the shell when it is making ferocious demands for food. For two days it is helpless, but on the third day is extraordinarily active. As soon as it is able to do so it pushes the other eggs out of the nest. Should these eggs have been hatched it forces itself under the young birds and by flapping its wings flings them out. Then, having the nest to itself, it clamors for an enormous quantity of food, with which the parents of its adoption supply it unostentatiously.

When the nest grows too small for it the young cuckoo rests on a branch, still clamoring for food. So it continues until it is ready to take flight to other climes. Such is the watchfulness of the parent cuckoos that they are in attendance in the neighborhood of the nests while their youngsters are hatching out and remain on guard until those youngsters have got their feathers. The parent birds always return to the same place at the time of mating and try to find the birds which hatched their eggs during previous seasons.

The Claw of the Devil.

In the middle ages people recognized witches and possessed persons by seeking on their bodies for what was called the claw of the devil. It was a more or less extensive part of the skin in which the subject was insensible to any touch or prick. The expert intrusted with this work would close the eyes of the subject and, armed with a sharp needle, prick here and there the different parts of the body. The sufferer was to answer with a cry to each prick, and the claw of the devil on a certain spot was recognized from the fact that he did not cry when this spot was examined.—From "The Major Symptoms of Hysteria," by Pierre Janet.

Finding a Grave With an Egg.

The Miautsze, a little known tribe in Asia, are very superstitious about death and will not bury a man until they have first tested the ground with an egg. This operation is very curious. While the body is being prepared for burial a number of Miautsze, including the male relatives of the deceased, go out to the appointed spot bearing a large basket of eggs. Stooping down, one of the natives lets an egg drop softly on the ground. If it breaks it is considered an ill omen, and another spot is selected. In this way the party often wanders for hours, breaking eggs over the ground until they finally strike a place where the shell does not crack.

Moslem Prayer Rugs.

Prayer rugs were evidently invented for the purpose of providing the worshipers with one absolutely clean place on which to offer prayers. It is not lawful of a Moslem to pray on any place not perfectly clean, and unless each one has his own special rug he is not certain that the spot has not been polluted. It does not matter to these followers of Mohammed how unclean a rug that is on the floor may be, because ever it they place the prayer rug when their devotions begin.

Economical Hand Bag.

"I want you to see my lovely shopping bag," said a certain lady to a caller the other afternoon. "My band gave it to me for my birth and it's simply grand. And it's economical! You see, you open this there are two compartments, and open the compartment on this side there is a little pocket in that, an open the little pocket and there are cute little pocketbooks for change, one side partitioned off for street tickets."

"I see," said the caller. "But do you call economical?"

"Why, it takes so long to open the things and get to your street tickets that by the time you do ever's with you has paid your fare."

Reported Verbatim.

Very few speakers are precise accurate enough to stand well absolutely verbatim report. I come across a verbatim report wonderful question addressed by Chief Justice Hyde to an accused son, writes "A Man of Kent" in British Weekly. If any reader make head or tail of it I should be glad to hear from him. Here is the question:

"You took a man in the dark by the throat, that man that was guilty of such a thing, as when that you let him go to call his companion bring the money, bring fellows to single; I would be glad to know whether in this case they would not knocked you on the head and you."

Running No Risk.

"What," asks the maiden aunt, "ing to marry that Mr. Newsum?" "You hardly know the man, Imogen the few days you have been acquainted with him you cannot possibly learned anything of his family or habits or personal circumstances."

"That is true, Aunt Keturah, you have always told me that no man who knows anything about a will marry him."

A Genius.

"Why, the boy's a genius!"

"A genius?"

"Yes—infinite capacity for the pains, you know."—London Tit-Bits.

BOWSER PLOWS.

Seeks Exercise Behind a Yoke of Flery Oxen.

A THRILLING EXPERIENCE.

Everything Goes Along Smoothly Until His Plow Strikes a Snag and a Run-away Ensues—Bowser Gets No Sympathy.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1913, by Associated Literary Press.]

NOTWITHSTANDING the disaster attending his efforts with the scythe at the Green farm, as already recorded, Mr. Bowser was anxious to go out for another Sunday, and Mrs. Bowser had no serious objections to offer.

They were eating their country Sunday breakfast when a farmer made his appearance with a yoke of oxen and a plow.

"Why, what does this mean?" asked Mrs. Bowser as she caught sight of the outfit.

"Oh, just a little exercise," replied Mr. Bowser.

"But it's Sunday."

"They don't keep Sunday in the country, you know."

"But it's not the season to plow."

"I am going to do a little plowing, Mrs. Bowser, and I don't know that the time of year has anything to do with it. I want to get this yard in shape and have some needed exercise at the same time."

"But when did you ever plow?"

"Before you cut your eyeteeth."

"And you can manage oxen?"

"I used to plow with five yoke of oxen ahead of the plow, and I guess I can manage one pair. You just keep out of my way and I'll rip up the clay around here in a way to astonish the natives. The gambolling farmer will now go forth to hold the warbling plow and manage the patient ox."

Farmer Proffers Aid.

"Look here, naybur," said the farmer as Mr. Bowser went out to him.

Tilbury, Ont.—"I could praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all around the world because it has done so much for me. For two years I was so run down that I was unable to do my work. thustiasm. He dropped the gad and seized the plow handles, and the next minute the oxen were on the run for the opposite fence and Mr. Bowser was playing circus behind them. Some times he was on one foot, sometimes on two. Sometimes he bounded into the air like a high jumper; sometimes he seemed to be sailing after the plow, which ripped through the grass and did not enter the soil at all. When the oxen brought up against the fence with a crash Mr. Bowser was flung to the left into a patch of pigweeds, and he lay there blinking at the sun when Mrs. Bowser came up and said: "I thought you knew all about plowing and driving oxen."

"And why don't I?" he shouted as he got up with the few hairs on his head standing on end. "You've got to strike out a furrow before you can plow, haven't you? I was simply getting a start. I told you these oxen looked frisky, but I'll tame 'em down after a bit."

Mrs. B. Offers a Suggestion.

"Hain't you better let the man do the plowing, and you can follow on behind and pick up the stones and sods?" "Never! What am I out here on a

E GOLDEN HORSESHOE.

Was the First Order Founded in This Country.

W many persons have ever heard of the Order of the Golden Horseshoe, first order founded in America?

1724, when Virginia extended the Atlantic into the unknown, a few of her colonists had crossed Blue Ridge or the Alleghanies. So of dangers from savages and wilds and so full of natural difficulties was the passage of these terrible mountains that Governor Spotswood, set out to discover a pass, looked on expedition as so hazardous that he with him a guard of "soldiers, emen and pioneers," armed and ing provisions. MYSTERY FLAGS.

Trophies That Are Souvenirs of Long Forgotten Battles.

In the midst of that wonderful collection of the souvenirs of battle that are on permanent exhibition in Trophy hall at the Naval academy in Annapolis are the nation's unknown trophies. Flags that were captured in now forgotten engagements are hung in the cases side by side with those whose glorious history is known.

Two of these souvenirs of forgotten battles are British flags. One is a jack marked Avon and nothing more, the other is the ensign of a warship and is marked Bereford. From the condition of both of these flags it is supposed that they date back to the war of 1812, but history gives no record of ships bearing those names being sent to American waters by Great Britain.

Another of the mystery flags is the "814" flag. In great white figures this number appears on a field of blue, and the entire flag is bordered with red. From some engagement in the war with the Moorish pirates the flag that the officers at Annapolis came to call the "house flag" seems to have come

BATHING A PRINCE.

Thomas Smoaker "Seen His Duty and He Done It."

George IV. while prince and resid- ing in his Brighton palace kept in his bedroom a portrait of Mrs. Gunn, an old bathing woman who used to dip him into the sea when he was the little Prince of Wales. A picture book much prized by children in England in those days showed the old lady bathing the little fellow. Beneath the picture was this stanza:

To Brighton came he,
Came George the Third's son,
To be dipped in the sea
By the famed Martha Gunn.

A companion portrait to Martha Gunn's was that of Thomas Smoaker, who had charge of the horse which drew the bathing machines into and out of the sea. One day the little royal highness, having learned to swim, swam out farther than Thomas judged to be safe. He called to him to come back, but the self-willed boy struck out with more vigor. Thomas went after the prince, overtook him, seized him by an ear and drew him to shore. "Do you think," he replied to the boy's angry words, "I'm a-going to get myself hanged for letting the king's heir drown himself just to please a youngster like you?"—Pearson's.

MR. BOWSER WAS PLAYING CIRCUS.

"shan't I do this bit o' work fur you? Mebbe you ain't used to oxen and plows."

"I was driving oxen and holding plows when I was six years old," replied Mr. Bowser with his usual modesty.

"Oh, you was? Then you must know all about 'em. What you want is the exercise, eh?"

"That's it. I came out here to work off about thirty pounds of fat and get a healthy color. Yelling at the oxen will also strengthen my voice. If you'll send a boy up in about half an hour he can take the outfit home."

"If you plow all this yard in half an hour you'll beat the hull caboodle of us," said the farmer as he looked the ground over. "Waal, I'll send a boy after the critters about sundown. Of course you know all about 'haw' and 'gee'?"

"My dear man," smiled Mr. Bowser. "I used the words before I had cut six teeth, and you needn't worry in the slightest. Drop over this evening and see if you can find any fault with my work."

When the neighbor had gone Mrs. Bowser came out and said:

"If you'll wait until I hunt up an old dress I'll drive the oxen for you."

"Never you mind about driving any oxen for me," he replied as he removed his coat and vest. "If I had as many dollars as acres of ground I've plowed with oxen we'd go to Europe this fall. Who'd a thought two months ago that we'd be out here in the country today turning up the golden soil and bathing in the glorious sunshine! Say, what a painting that landscape would make down there across the meadow!"

"Y-e-s," replied Mrs. Bowser as her eyes took in an old straw stack, two rail fences and a cornfield gone to weeds.

Bowser Goes It Alone.

"And the merry hearted plowman is now ready to plow. If you don't want to be buried under the mellow soil you'd better stand back. These oxen look to me to be a little frisky, and when we start we may go eighteen times around the yard without stop- ping. All ready now—haw over—gee up!"

Mr. Bowser flourished the gad about his head and brought it down on the backs of the waiting oxen to start off with enthusiasm. They started. No fault could be found with their plow, haven't you? I was simply get- ting a start. I told you these oxen looked frisky, but I'll tame 'em down after a bit."

Mrs. B. Offers a Suggestion.

"Hain't you better let the man do the plowing, and you can follow on be- hind and pick up the stones and sods?"

"Never! What am I out here on a farm for? What did I get this plow for? You just keep away and I'll be all right. The oxen are probably afraid of you, and that's the reason they started off as they did."

"But you might have been killed," she persisted as she started for the house.

"Yes, and I might have spread my wings and sailed away to heaven!" he retorted. And then to the oxen:

"You go on! Now, then, haw around here and gee up. That's the way. Tell me the merry, merry plowman can't plow, will you?"

The oxen started off at a gentle pace this time, but going where they pleased, and Mr. Bowser followed after. Some- times he dug the point of the plow into the hard soil; sometimes the handles were down in the grass and the point in the air. He was "ripping things," however, and was well pleased for about two minutes. Then he made a sudden lunge on the handles, the plow struck a rock, and as he went into the air the oxen whirled about and ran over everything behind and brought up in a fence corner. Mrs. Bowser, who was looking on from the back steps, had just reached the scene and was hunting in the grass for Mr. Bowser's body when the farmer who owned the outfit came up and said:

"I kinder guessed he didn't know anything about plowing, and so I was hidin' down thar behind the fence to be at hand. He's had the wind knock- ed out o' him, but I guess he's all right. Let's drag him up by the back door."

Bowser Comes To.

It was half an hour before Mr. Bowser sat up on the grass and look- ed about him. The man was plowing the yard, and Mrs. Bowser had the camphor bottle at his nose.

"Well," said she, "the merry, merry plowman has held the warbling plow."

"I—I understand," he replied as he transfixed her with his glare. "Just as I got started you threw a rail at the oxen and hoped and expected I'd be- come a mangled corpse! I'll—I'll see you later!"

"You needn't feel bad about it, nay- bur," said the farmer in a consoling voice as he came and bent over the warbling plowman. "These 'ere oxen have killed three different hired men for me, and if you'd been flung about a foot further you'd have struck a stun and been mashed up like a pumpkin. You'd better stick to bluffin' and let plowing alone!"

NAPANEE DISTRICT EPWORTH LEAGUE CONVENTION

The Epworth Leagues of the Napanee District met in convention in the Methodist Church, Newburgh, on Sept. 25th, 1913. A goodly number of delegates were present.

The local league served dinner and tea in the basement of the church, so that the delegates and those interested in the work might have a good and profitable time together.

Rev. Mr. DeMille conducted the Devotional Exercises of the morning session, after which the President, Mr. D. A. Nesbit, took the chair.

The minutes of the last convention were read and then declared approved by the President.

The Business Committee was appointed and consisted of the following persons: The President and Secretary together with Rev. Mr. Tucker, Rev. Mr. White, Rev. Mr. DeMille, Miss E. Shorey and Mr. H. Weese.

Moved by Rev. Mr. Down, seconded by Rev. Mr. Tucker, that a representative from every League with Mr. Nesbit as chairman be the Resolution Committee. Carried.

Some time was spent discussing other young peoples societies such as Mission Bands and Circles.

Moved by Rev. Mr. Tucker, seconded by Rev. Mr. Down, that every pastor report all young people's societies so that the new officers may have a list. Carried.

Moved by Rev. Mr. DeMille, seconded by Rev. Mr. White, that this young people's society matter be referred to the committee on resolutions. Carried.

Rev. Mr. Sexsmith pronounced the benediction at the close of the morning session.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Rev. Mr. Rowland took charge of the Devotional Exercises.

The President, D. A. Nesbit, in his address spoke of the lack of spiritual enthusiasm in our leagues.

"Our purpose in this convention" was the subject taken by Rev. Mr. Tucker. There is a lack of consecration in the Epworth League, the young people are not seized with the heroic side of christianity. Twenty years ago there was no lack of young men for the ministry. And now the demand is far greater than the supply.

The call of the community and how the leagues may respond was the subject introduced by Rev. Mr. Rowland. The call is imperative. The Epworth League is christian just as much as it wants men and tries to get them. There is no other way but for every Epworth League to get down on their knees and ask God to lay on us this burden. There is nothing that will help and keep men but the power of Jesus Christ. Rev. Mr. Rowland in closing his address led in a short prayer.

Rev. M. E. Sexsmith, Whitby, drew a comparison between the young people of the church and the wild horses

"The Hill, Difficulty" what is it was the subject of a round table conducted by Rev. Mr. Tucker. was a general discussion of Epworth League work, and the majority of those present took part in it.

Rev. Manson Doyle, Field Sec. for Manitoba, gave an address, as his subject, "God and I" on waste conservation and use of land and divine resources. We speak the great resources of this country compared with that of others, sometimes forget the mighty resources that is ever near "The Holy Spirit God."

Do we ever think of our influence? How many opportunities and much influence is waited by Epworth Leagues.

Rev. J. P. Wilson pronounced benediction at the close of the noon session.

5. That we urge upon the Pastors and League Officers of District Local Leagues the great benefit of placing in the hands of our young people, The Epworth Era, and a systematic campaign to this end in every League.

Mr. A's Profitless Job.

Two patrons of a noted Ontario creamery, both members of a cow testing association, at the end of last year had these records to study. Mr. A. milking eight cows sent a total of only 1,380 pounds of fat. Mr. B. with only five cows sent 1,777 pounds. Dairymen in other sections are invited to consider what this means. A. had three cows more than B. to milk and feed all year, but received a smaller income than B. by quite ninety dollars. Nor is that all, for the extra cows consumed feed worth at least ninety dollars more, making another ninety dollars that he was "out." But one step further: A. worked hard milking those three extra cows, spending probably 200 hours more than B. on a thankless and profitless job. The cows were worth something as an investment, but it is doubtful if they returned any interest on it; some allowance should be made for depreciation even of this wonderfully inefficient cow "plant"; then stable accommodations had to be provided for them; and the general care of the herd called for some expenditure of thought and skill on the part of A. as general manager of his establishment. The deductions are plain; however comforting a "guess" may be as to whether a cow, or a herd, "pays," there is nothing to take the place of actual dairy records. Further, whatever the production of a herd may be compared with other annual records should be made in order to see if improvement is possible.

Lewis Carroll's charming classic "Alice in Wonderland" to be interpreted by old and young of Napanee, under the personal direction of Miss D. Hope Leonard, the dramatizer, of New York City. Over one hundred and fifty local people will take part. A stage production requiring over 150 local people is probably a novelty to some of the people of our town. The Ladies' Committee of the Woman's Guild of St. Mary Magdalene Church have completed arrangements to produce in October, at the Opera House, an operetta, dramatized from Lewis Carroll's famous fairy story, "Alice in Wonderland," by Miss D. Hope Leonard. This beautiful spectacular operetta has been given by Col. John F. All the costumes, properties, electrical and calcium effects, instructor, etc., are furnished by the New York Management and Col. John F. Bragg, the Manager, together with Miss D. TEACHERS' CONVENTION

The annual convention of the Lennox and Addington Teachers' Association was held in the Collegiate Institute, Napanee, on Oct. 2nd, at 10.30 a.m.

Rev. Mr. Kidd, M. A., favored the teachers with a few encouraging remarks, read a passage from St. John's Gospel and offered prayer.

In the President's address, Mr. Reid, M. A., spoke of the importance of the teacher's work and stated that the greatest aim of the teacher should be to develop correct habits, a good aid being manual training. Teachers should give positive suggestions rather than negative.

Roll call was responded to by about 73.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

The secretary then read communications from the O. E. A., the O. T. A., the Continuation School Section of the O. E. A., and "The School."

The treasurer's report was read and placed in the hands of the auditors, Messrs. Pickering and McKay, who were chosen in the absence of the auditors, Messrs. Flach and Tice.

A committee was named to consider the communications and report on Friday. Another committee was named to consider the Resolutions of the O. E. A. and report on Friday.

The committee on the Circulating Library for Teachers was not ready to report.

Roll call at 1.30 p. m., showed an attendance 89.

In his address on "Observations in School," Mr. Nesbit, M. A., showed how necessary it is that teachers be enthusiasts and emphasized what Mr. Reid had said on habits. He urged the teachers to get the pupils to work for themselves, to keep the school unconsciously educative and to prepare for each day's work.

Miss Hall's solo was much appreciated.

Miss McRae spoke on "The Value of Art in the Public School" and "Elementary Art." Art is a better mode of expression than words, a more natural mode for the child. It is a means of training eye and hand, a necessary element of success. It develops the appreciative power and gives a capacity for enjoyment and is a vital element in production. The P. S. prepares future workmen for industries and increases the demand for good design. The aid of art in spiritual development is of greatest value. By training to correct observations it leads to right habits. Art arouses interest in literature, geography, history, historic ornament, nature study, etc. A language lesson grows naturally from drawing. Lastly art instils a love for beauty in homes and surroundings.

When speaking on Elementary Art, Miss McRae said the best materials for Primer and Book I, are the softest charcoal, rough paper and colored chalk. Do not restrict in colors; have children draw only general shapes and put in no details. Pupils do only charcoal work for six months, and drawings should represent life and action. Pupils in Book II use soft pencil, three colors—red, yellow, and blue, and a neutral, also brush and ink. Orange, green and violet are taken away and to be made by the pupils. Permit a few details. The lecturer advised teachers to start pupils by reading them some simple little story and letting them illustrate it. Illustrating aids their observation. Pupils draw right from the object; no copying of others' drawings should be allowed. They may use any mechanical helps.

Subjects are:—Landscapes, to express seasons, including sky, ground

Mr. McKay, Principal of P. S., Napanee, gave a very exhaustive paper which offered many good suggestions for teaching spelling in P. S.

Miss McRae's second lecture was on "The Use of Pictures in the Class Room." In order to educate children to know what is good in art, Miss McRae would have them make collections of their own from magazines, etc. Copies of famous pictures suitable for the class-room and for children's collections may be obtained from the Perry Pictures Co., Malden, Mass.

The following are aids to the teacher:

1. Story of Art and Artists.
2. How to study pictures, by Caffin.
3. Pictures every child should know.

Moved by Mr. Nesbit, seconded by Miss MacKenzie, that we express our appreciation of Miss McRae's excellent lectures by a hearty clapping of the hands. Carried.

In the absence of the President, the afternoon session was presided over by the Vice-President, Miss K. M. Keachie, Yarker.

Miss Robinson's address on Humanitarianism was intensely interesting and showed her to be an able speaker.

Moved by Mr. Pickering, seconded by Mr. McDay, that a vote of thanks be given Miss Robinson for her clever address. Carried.

Much to the regret of all present, time did not permit of Miss Parks' giving her talk on Seat Work in Primary Classes.

The report of Auditors was read. The Treasurer's books were found correct so the report was adopted.

The report on resolutions was brought in by Mr. Pickering and the following clauses were afterward adopted:

REPORT OF COMMITTEE ON RESOLUTIONS.

Part 1—Resolutions afterward adopted by the Institute:

1. That it is the opinion of this Institute that when the Minister of Education contemplates the authorization or revision of a text book on any subject he should give at least one year's notice of his intention thereof so that those who wish may submit a book in typewritten form; that Public school teachers be consulted in the preparation and selection of all Public School text; and that the authorization of no text book go into effect till six months after it is published.

2. That this Institute express the hope that the Primer be further improved so that in the matter of word recognition it will be better adapted to a logical use of phonics.

3. That the use of a text book on spelling be abolished by regulation of the Department of Education.

4. That each High School Entrance Board be composed of (a) the High School Principal (b) the Public School Inspector (c) an additional High School teacher appointed by the Principal (d) three teachers actually engaged in teaching entrance work if there are three in the district who have the necessary qualifications one of these to be a teacher in a Separate School if such is available—these three to be appointed by the Public School Inspector (e) the principals of all two and three teacher continuation schools whose centres are attached to the High School District.

5. That the time table for the High School Entrance Examination be arranged so as to cover three whole days and include spaces specified for Oral Reading.

Moved by Mr. McKay, seconded by Mr. Pickering, that the Secretary pay all expenses of this Association. Carried.

Moved by Mr. Pickering, seconded by Mr. Andrews, that the election of officers be by open voting this year, After paying such close attention to Miss McKae's helpful address, the teachers found the instrumental duet by Misses Nesbit and Carmen Mills very restful.

Mr. McLean, N. C. L., followed with a talk on "Mistakes made in Arithmetic by Entrance Pupils," and suggested as a remedy lots of exams.

The meeting adjourned.

The evening programme given in the Town Hall, and presided over by Mr. Reid, M. A., consisted of a lecture on "The Bad Boy" by Mr. Jas. L. Hughes, and music provided by a committee—Misses Robinson, Nesbit and Hall. The lecture was entertaining and instructive. The quartettes and solos, both instrumental and vocal were enthusiastically encored.

Friday's session opened at 9 a.m., attendance $7, was considerably increased by members entering soon after.

Mr. Reid had received a communication from Tamworth inviting the teachers to hold their next convention there. On account of lack of accommodation in hotels it was deemed advisable to hold it in Napanee.

Mr. Nesbit, Chairman of Committee on Communications submitted the following for consideration:—

1. That the Continuation School Section of O. E. A. be given $3. Carried.
2. That the P. S. Department of O. E. A. be given $5. Carried.
3. That becoming members of the Teacher's Alliance be left as an option to teachers, but should they desire to join, they shall hold in name and fee to secretary of this association. Carried.

The next question was that of choosing a committee to judge at each competition held for the Strathcona prize for military drill and physical drill.

Moved by Miss Parks and seconded by Mr. McKay, that Mr. Nesbit and the drill master of the gymnasium, N. C. L., be appointed a committee for Mr. Nesbit's inspectorate, and Mr. Reid for his division of N. Addington and N. Frontenac. Carried.

Mr. Andrews, H. S., Newburgh, in his address on Arithmetic in P. S., advised teachers not to let pupils try Entrance till they were fit for it. It seemed the unanimous opinion of the teachers that too much time is spent on arithmetic.

ALBERTA FARM LANDS

In the heart of the Red Deer District, the best mixed farming district in Western Canada, we own a large tract of choice land. All the land is close to railway and the district is well settled with good farmers. For dairying, this country cannot be excelled; pastures plentiful and prices good. Our terms are good and the payments extend over a period of ten years. Anyone considering moving to Western Canada would do well to get information from us. We are open to consider a trade of some of these lands for Ontario lands. Write us and our representative will answer all inquiries.

MONTREAL, Oct. 6.—At the Montreal stock yards, west end market, the receipts of live stock for the week ended Oct. 4 were 4200 cattle, 4400 sheep and lambs, 2400 hogs and 1500 calves. The offerings on the market this morning were 3000 cattle, 2600 sheep and lambs, 1000 hogs and 100 calves.

The free admission of cattle and swine free of duty into the United States caused a slight advance in prices, a rise of 25c per 100 pounds on some grades being shown. Full carloads of steers, weighing about 1100 pounds each, brought $6 to $6.10, and common bulls, $4 to $4.25. Good steers sold at $6.75 and a few picked choice steers sold as high as $7.25 to $7.50 per 100 pounds for local consumption.

The market for sheep and lambs was unchanged with demand light. Prices were firm, western lambs selling at $6.50 to $6.75 and eastern at $5.75 to $6.25 per 100 pounds. The tone of the market for calves was stronger on account of the continued good demand from American buyers for grass fed stocks and prices for such were 4c per lb. higher than a week ago, with sales of large lots at 4c to 4 1/2c per pound, while the local buyers are paying 6 1/2c to 7 1/2c per pound for choice milk fed stock.

Hogs were weak with prices 40c to 50c lower, as compared with last week. At the above reduction demand was good with sales of selected lots at $9 to $9.25, straight lots at $8.75 to $9, and sows at $6.75 to $7 per 100 pounds weighed off cars.

"Clamorous Printers' Devils."

Among the papers of a dead relative has been found an unpublished autograph letter from Thomas Carlyle to Mrs. Austin when he was preparing to leave Craigenputtock to reside in London. Mrs. Austin had undertaken to choose a house in London for the Carlyles and the letter, which is dated March 20, 1834, refers to this matter. The most interesting passages are as follows:—

"You are very kind and helpful, and yet it is almost cruel to so task your kindness. With the clamorous printers' devils one has enough to do and there is no need of other devils to join in the hunt. I am well persuaded that you can please us better than we could ourselves were we already on the spot."

"My whole soul grows sick in the business of housekeeping. I get to think with a kind of comfort of the grim house, six feet by three, which will need no seeking. In return I ought to profess myself humble in my requisitions as to that matter."

"I must have air to breathe. I must have sleep also, for which latter object procul o procul este, ye accursed tribe of bugs, ye bawling watchmen, that awaken the world every half-hour to say what o'clock it is. Of other indispensable requisitions I have none."

Mrs. Asquith Tired.

"I am sick to death of it," said Mrs. Asquith, the British Premier's wife, to a friend at Goodwood races. She was referring to her duties as the wife of the Prime Minister. "You never can be 'yourself,'" she volunteered, "for you must be forever, so to speak, standing on your hind legs." Her friends who know "Margot" best predicted this for her.

"She'll be so heartily sick of it all, she'll wish herself at the bottom of the sea," they said when she went to Downing Street.

"I have to wear a hat, or, at any rate, keep my head covered when I play golf," she remarked, "and if there's one thing I dislike when I play it is to do this. It takes away half the pleasure of the game. And all the weary bores one has to be civil to if you are the wife of the Prime Minister! And you have to put the brake on your tongue all the time."

Sounded Like Russian.

Three little brown men with the stiff hair and the black moustaches stared gravely through their gold-rimmed spectacles at the speakers on the platform at the recent Geological Congress in Toronto.

"Do you understand English well?" asked a reporter.

"Pretty well," replied one of the Japanese delegates. "But I read and speak it better than I listen to it. You see our teachers of English in Japan are not Englishmen, as a rule, they are Japanese. It is difficult for me to get the accent. And when others speak, if they have a marked accent, it is very difficult. That gentleman who spoke last, he was difficult. He spoke English with the Russian accent—did he not?"

"Scotch," corrected the reporter. "Oh, Scotch!" exclaimed the Japanese scientist. He shook his head gravely.

"The Scotch makes English very hard, don't he?" the savant inquired sadly.

THE LATE JAMES DALY.

The death occurred on Thursday, Oct. 2nd, at four o'clock, of James Daly, one of Napanee's oldest and most respected citizens. In the passing of Mr. Daly there is removed one more of the connecting links between the present generation and that of nearly a century ago. Deceased was young enough to have associated with the last of the U. E. Loyalists and old enough to have appreciated the struggles of the young country in 1836-7, and grandson of Captain Peter Daly, who came to this country with the Loyalist band guided by Captain Grass, in 1784, and settled near Bath. Captain Peter Daly, who forms the family union between the old world and the new, came to New York with his father. Peter, who held a commission as lieutenant-colonel in the British Army and fought in 1778-7 under General Burgoyne. At the outbreak of the American revolution the younger Peter Daly joined the king's regiments and with them fought from Ticonderoga to the repulse of General Arnold at Quebec, where for his gallantry, and not withstanding his youth, he was promoted to the rank of captain. Peace being declared Captain Daly came to Kingston, and sharing in the royal grants, settled near Bath. He married Mary Warburton and reared a family of nine children. Ever ready in the cause of his king the old captain with his three sons were all doing military duty at Kingston during the troubles of 1812. At Chateaugay he was severely wounded in the engagement. The third son, Lewis, married Mercy, daughter of Major John Everett, a distinguished Loyalist, who lived near Kingston, and whose second son forms the subject of this sketch.

James Daly was born in 1825 and lived a most active and varied career, achieving success in agricultural, military, commercial and judicial pursuits.

In 1852, when the discovery of gold in Australia seemed to electrify the world, he being of an adventurous and progressive spirit, embarked on the clipper ship "Revenue." This was the first vessel to sail from America to the island continent, and occupied four months from leaving New York. Returning after two years by way of New Zealand, he visited the coast countries of South America, and crossed the Isthmus of Panama by saddle. Again sailing for New York he completed the circling of the world.

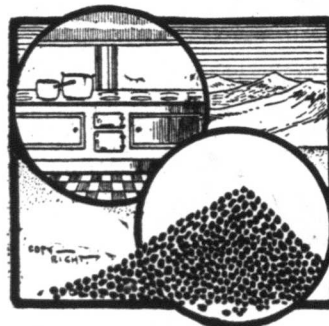

After his return he devoted much attention to municipal affairs, and was a member of the district council for many years previous to the separation of the counties. At the time of the affair of the Trent, Mr. Daly raised one of the first volunteer rifle corps in the province, and as a part of the 48th battalion was on duty at Cornwall during the Fenian Raid in 1866. Subsequently, in recognition of proficiency, his company was attached to the Royal Canadian Rifles, then stationed at Kingston, and Mr. Daly obtained rank as captain in the military school. For his services he was granted land and awarded a medal, being the third generation to be so recognized for defence of his country. Some years ago he was engaged in the grain export business in Napanee.

Patterson and Harriet Ford.

Brand took a lead pencil from his pocket and began a proceeding which the two reporters, accustomed as they were in their business to ingenious strategy, failed at first to understand. Then the scheme dawned on them. Brand took the telephone receiver from the hook, and the metal arm immediately snapped upward, establishing the connection. Then he inserted the point of the lead pencil in the small aperture under the little metal arm or hook and deliberately broke it off. The tiny wedge thus held up the hook. Brand now hung up the receiver, and the pencil point prevented the weight of the receiver from bearing the hook down and breaking the connection. The connection was made continuous without the slightest indication that such was the case. Every word now spoken within a reasonable distance of the mouthpiece would be conveyed to the telephone and the extension telephone in editorial room 4, where Howard and Jeff were to be stationed. They had stenographers' pads with them, on which they were each to take down the conversation in shorthand.

"This phone will be open all the time that Bartelmy is here," announced Brand. "Go in there, Howard, and see if you can hear Jeff and me talking. Sit over here, Jeff." He pointed to the chair at his right. Howard went out. "Now, Jeff, take down this and take down what you say to me," continued the editor.

Brand turned to Jeff and began to talk in a natural tone of voice.

"Jeff, you know I think the dog in the moon was seven times too slow in his journey through the paths of men, having lost 6,749,730,274,490 pounds in his auto northward. Is that your opinion?"

"No, not entirely. Hence and hereafter we complain of such a miraculous egotism of generality and solecism of peaceful garments and cold thought."

Brand struck a blow on the desk. "On the contrary, it was unquestionable and with nasty justice, mis-called Bartelmy coughed nervously. "One can never be too careful about matters of this kind, Brand. I should think that you would have learned that much by this time."

"This is my first experience of this kind," said Brand.

"Of course it is," answered Bartelmy, with a tinge of sarcasm in his voice. "It always is 'the first time.' But you are assuredly very lucky indeed, Brand, to do so very well at your first try at—at—"

"Come, look over the place, and let's get through with it," put in the editor.

He crossed and locked the door through which the judge had entered. Then he led his visitor over to the door on the opposite side of the room opening into a hallway which extended to various rooms. He pointed to the room directly across the hall. "It's quite dark, you see," he said. "This is where a couple of editorial writers sit. They go home nights, lucky dogs, not being newspaper men." Bartelmy was quick enough to catch the ironical comment of the busy managing editor on the scholarly men who wrote the opinions of the paper. Brand drew the judge back into his office and locked the door behind him.

"Now we are alone, absolutely alone," commented Brand significantly. He led the way to his desk and pointed out to the judge the chair at the right hand side. Brand dropped into his own chair. "Have a seat, judge," he said.

Judge Bartelmy drew the chair indicated even closer to the managing editor's desk and seated himself in it. He leaned forward toward Brand and rested his elbow on the desk. His face was within ten or twelve inches of the telephone.

CHAPTER XI.

BARTELMY, now that he had taken the final and extremely distasteful plunge and had come to the office of the Advance, waited for Brand to make the opening remarks about the particular object of his visit.

Brand was waiting for the judge to do the same. It was the newspaper man who spoke first, after the two had seated themselves. He was anxious to get the matter over with as quickly as possible, for he well knew that, in spite of all his precautions, affairs in a newspaper office are so uncertain that an interruption of an unexpected nature might occur to ruin the entire plan.

"Mr. Dupuy was here a short time ago," he ventured.

Judge Bartelmy proceeded to explain the appearance of the lawyer lobbyist in the affair. While it was plain to Brand that the judge had sent Dupuy as a go-between so that it would be impossible to connect Bartelmy with the payment of any money as a bribe, the jurist did not propose to acknowledge that such had been his laudable purpose. He gave an entirely different reason.

"Yes, I know," he said. "He found me at the opera with my daughter. I hoped, Mr. Brand, that by allowing me to act through him you would spare me this last humiliation."

"Would it not be safer for you if no third party knew of your transaction with me?" suggested Brand.

The judge pitied the colossal ignorance of this amateur in trickery. Did not he know that in the superior spheres of crooked practices it became

"I am afraid that is the trouble with me. My humor is nearly always unintentional." Brand sighed as though sorry for himself.

The judge began to show signs of nervousness.

"Well, shall we get on with it?" the editor asked him.

"Yes. I must rejoin my daughter. She's waiting for me at the opera. She was very anxious that I should not come here tonight. It was curious—her persistency in the matter."

Brand drew his chair closer to the desk—closer to the telephone.

"Let us get to business," he said.

The judge went on talking about his daughter.

"She displays an unusual, I should say an extraordinary, curiosity as to my mission here," he said. "My daughter would have made a great cross-examiner if she had been a man."

"We're wasting time, judge." Now it was Brand who was becoming impatient.

"Am I to understand that the payment of this sum"—Bartelmy began.

Brand raised his voice to a high pitch.

"Ten thousand dollars!" he said.

"Yes," agreed Bartelmy cautiously. "Am I to understand that it—ah—wipes out of your recollection not only the incident of which you were speaking, but also as to"—He paused.

Brand helped the would be briber to complete his sentence.

"You mean your secret interview last night with Dupuy and the attorney for the Lansing?"

The visitor raised his hand warningly at Brand's loud tones, as though to counsel caution.

"Yes, yes."

"Lansing Iron corporation?" continued Brand, bending close to the telephone.

"Yes. Will this sum, paid in hand, induce you to forget—ah—not only that incident, but also various other matters to which the Advance seems to have taken exception in the past?"

Brand sank back in his chair.

"You mean you want us to let up on you all around?"

"Precisely."

"Then that's understood."

"You will make a memorandum for me in writing to that effect—a receipt, so to speak?"

He pushed a pad toward the managing editor.

"All right—certainly," agreed Brand, taking up a pen.

The judge began to congratulate himself on the ease with which he was handling the young man.

"This is—ah—more businesslike," he said.

But Brand gave him another shock when he said:

"Yes; I'll draw it up in duplicate. Each of us will keep a copy—signed."

"Ah—ha—ha!" The jurist leaned back and laughed. "You're a clever lad, Brand. Well, well; youth will be served!" He pushed the pad away.

Brand glanced at the clock fixed in the wall opposite him.

"Nine thousand dollars," said I. "Ten thousand dollars," the counted.

"Is that correct?" he queried editor.

"Ten thousand dollars, correct," the reply. "That will wipe the clean between us."

Brand held out his hand to tal money.

"One can never be too careful about matters of this kind."

"lamby-pamby—got it?" cried the editor, bending over the mouthpiece. "Come in, Howard!"

Howard hurried into the room. "Compare your notes, boys," instructed the managing editor. They held the records side by side and quickly glanced over them.

"They are almost exactly the same," they exclaimed in unison.

A smile of satisfaction spread over Brand's face.

"All right. Now chase back to room 4, both of you!"

The office boy brought Brand a card. He took it, and as he glanced at it his eyes narrowed down into little sparks of light.

"He's on time," he murmured. "Very well, Durkin," he ordered, "show him in, and, Durkin, remember, don't let any one else in under any circumstances."

A half a minute later Judge Bartelmy stood in the doorway. He nodded briefly to Brand, and his eyes swept around the entire room before he stepped in. Slowly he proceeded in front of Brand's desk.

"Good evening, judge," said the editor.

"Good evening, Mr. Brand."

"Let me take your things. I'll hang them up," offered Brand. Just as Dupuy had been, Bartelmy was in evening dress. He took off his white kid gloves and put them in his pocket and then handed his hat and coat to the editor. Brand opened the door of a closet at the right hand side of the room and hung the judge's things therein. He closed the door. Bartelmy stepped to the closet, opened the door and peered sharply into its four corners, even fumbling behind his long coat, to make sure that no witness was lurking there to spy on him.

"Oh, that's the way you feel?" commented Brand. "I'll show you over the place. But you shouldn't worry."

me this last humiliation."

"Would it not be safer for you if no third party knew of your transaction with me?" suggested Brand.

The judge pitied the colossal ignorance of this amateur in trickery. Did not he know that in the superior spheres of crooked practices it became necessary to employ third persons on many occasions to put through matters of this sort? And he was a newspaper man of years of experience too. No, this peculiar young man would never finish supplying the judge with surprises; of that Bartelmy was positive. Perhaps it might be in order to observe at this point that, while Brand of course could not know that these thoughts were passing through his visitor's mind, he at the same time would have been ready to confess that he was going to provide several more surprises for the jurist. But there are different varieties of surprises.

"Dupuy is in my confidence," the judge pronounced with an air of finality.

"He's not in mine," responded the managing editor.

"You're mistaken in him. I know him intimately."

"Oh, the pity of it," exclaimed Brand, "that you should be intimately acquainted with such a man as Dupuy!"

Bartelmy could not restrain a sarcastic smile at the editor's sneer at Dupuy.

"Mr. Brand," he said quickly, "your moral reflections at this juncture impart a certain quaint humor to the situation."

Back of us will keep a copy—signed.

"Ah—ha—ha!" The jurist leaned back and laughed. "You're a clever lad, Brand. Well, well; youth will be served!" He pushed the pad away.

Brand glanced at the clock fixed in the wall opposite him.

"It's getting late, judge," he warned.

Bartelmy reached into the inside pocket of his evening dress coat and extracted an oblong package. Slipping off a rubber band that encircled it, he unwrapped the yellow paper and laid before him on the managing editor's desk a neat stack of crisp new bank bills, all of the $500 denomination.

Bartelmy started to count the money, but he desisted and pushed the bills over toward Brand.

"Count it," he said.

"You count it."

The judge leaned forward and began the task. His head was within four or five inches of the mouthpiece of the telephone. He picked up the bills, one at a time, and as he counted them he laid them in another pile.

"Five hundred," he said—"one thousand, fifteen—two thousand, twenty-five—three thousand, thirty-five—four thousand, forty-five—five thousand. There is half of it," he remarked.

"Yes; that's $5,000," assented Brand.

"Six thousand," said the judge, continuing with his task—"seven thousand, seventy-five—eight thousand."

"Eight thousand dollars," agreed Brand.

"Nine thousand," counted the judge.

story of his shame.

Shaking from head to foot, he pounded the desk and out:

"You have gone to all your y for nothing. I am going direct to Nolan's house, and in less than an hour you will receive orders that story—that dastardly pack you want to print!"

Brand smiled calmly. He gave the $10,000 in bills, which lay spread on the desk where Bartelmy had thrown them when he dashed for the camera.

"I'll keep these as evidence," he said. "When they have served their purpose we will return them to you, or I will send them to the million stockholders in the Lansing Iron Company. That's who the money properly belongs to."

Bartelmy accepted the situation with stoical composure for the time being, saw that he would have no chance to hand a struggle with the young athletic editor for possession of the money. Besides, he must see him at once. That was the most important matter to be should now attend.

He walked deliberately to the door and secured his hat and coat, turned the key and went out the door leading to the outer hall.

As the judge disappeared, Brand sank heavily into his chair.

"You count the money, judge," spread his arms on his desk and held his head between them until his cheek rested on the cool polished face.

"Judith, Judith!" he sobbed, and his body shook uncontrolledly as he thought of the girl he loved.

He rushed from the room at the point where the door occurred, hoping to obtain the camera and destroy the evidence. Owing to the pall of smoke he was unable to see just in what position the camera had been arranged. When he reached the side of the door there was no camera to be seen, a round hole extending through the partition into the next room and which the camera had been re-

He stood and gazed in disbelief. He knew now that he was at the mercy of Brand and the Advance editor agreed that he hardly dared to move.

He turned around and walked back to his desk. Brand was still standing in the same place, looking fixedly at the judge. Bartelmy was not beaten yet. He knew that he would not be beaten unless the Advance appeared in the streets of New York to all the world the shame of his shame.

He stepped from head to foot in his anger and pounded the desk and cried:

"I have gone to all your trouble and expense. I am going direct to Mr. Brand's house, and in less than an hour you will receive orders to kill me—that dastardly pack of lies" undoings for a day. Masses of "copy" swirl upward in the tubes or are carried in by boys from the city editorial room. The typesetting machines click, click, click, in unceasing monotony, and the proofreaders scan columns of "green proofs" with a rapidity, when under pressure, that would amaze the uninitiated observer. The "makeup" men cluster around the cumbersome tables or "stones" on which the forms are made up, lifting in the metal lines of type here, making corrections or shifting cuts there and locking the forms to be shunted into the stereotype room, where the paper matrices will be made. When the matrix is placed in the casting box the molten stereotype metal is poured in, and within a very few minutes the cylindrical plates, hardened quickly in the casting box by the pouring of cold water into the jacket, are locked on the cylinders of the gigantic duodecuple press and ready to whirl off over 100 copies of a paper per second, all printed, pasted, folded and counted.

Midnight in the offices of the Advance on the night that Judge Bartelmy's photograph was taken with $10,000 of bribe money in his hands found the staff of the paper in all departments working as probably they had never worked before, except on election night. The story required considerable time for preparation. The notes of Howard and Jeff, the two reporters who recorded the conversation of Brand and Bartelmy, had to be translated from shorthand into English. Then an introduction and a head had to be written, and the art department had to break all previous records in turning out a cut made from the photograph resulting from the flashlight.

In the composing room men were working like galley slaves to get the great Bartelmy exposure story into type and into the forms. The composing room in the Advance building was a "double decker"—that is, a second story had been built in the rear part of the room to accommodate the proofreaders. This second story was really but a half story, extending out over a portion of the composing room, and the walls were partitions, the lower half of wood and the upper half of glass windows.

On the lower floor the linotype machines were set in rows. A steam table loomed on one side. On another table, an ironbound one, rested the galleys containing matter for the night's edition of the paper. At the extreme left of the room a wooden partition shut off the small office that the managing editor used at night when he superintended the makeup proceedings. A door opened into this small room from the outer hall, close to a door opening from the hall into the composing room itself. At the opposite end of the compartment a door opened into the composing room. In his small inclosure Brand, the managing editor, had a desk and a telephone. Adjoining the partition, which shut him off from the composing room and on the outside of it, was a desk used by the copy cutters, who cut the pages of manuscript—after they had been pasted together—into "takes." A take is one of the sections into which a story is cut, so that several compositors can work on different parts of the same story simultaneously, resulting in the saving of considerable time in setting it up.

The typesetting machines clicked off rapidly the words, sentences and para-

"I'm afraid you'll have to find him," was the only information he chose to impart.

Young Nolan drew close to the desk at which the managing editor was working.

"Judge Bartelmy wants him," he exclaimed. "The judge, the judge! Don't you understand?"

"Does he?" asked Brand with utmost unconcern.

Sylvester grew impatient at his father's employee who dared assume indifference toward his father's only son.

"I want to know where he is," he demanded.

"Well, I can't tell you," Brand rose and stepped away, with Sylvester following him.

"I understand that you are going to publish something about the judge that's beyond the limit," said the son.

"Possibly."

"Well, this thing's gone far enough,"

"That cut is a wonder Mac" snapped Sylvester. "In the absence of my father I forbid it. Do you hear?"

Brand took up a bundle of proofs and moved to the door.

"I'm afraid I can't take orders from you," he said, and he stepped calmly out into the composing room.

Sylvester, nonplused, looked about uncertainly for a moment. Then, with a sudden thought, he went to the telephone.

He placed the receiver at his ear.

"Hello! Hello! I'm Mr. Sylvester Nolan. Get me the house on the wire, please." An office boy entered. "What do you mean by trying to prevent me from coming up here?" asked ven-

"My orders."

"You're discharged." The boy grinned amusedly and hurried out.

"Hello! Hello!" continued Sylvester at the telephone. "Is this you, mother? I want to speak to father. I'm at the Advance office. Tell's breaking loose here, and I want him to come down quick. Isn't he there? Where is he? Expecting him any minute? Oh!

Jump in a taxi and come down, will you? All right. Good!"

He hung up the receiver and walked swiftly into the hall to leave the building.

Downs and Brand entered the little room.

"There is a big fire in Clinton street," the former said. "McMurry won't give me the room, but I've got to have it."

"That's it. The good stuff always comes in bunches," said Brand, showing his disgust. "What else you got?"

"Your cub, Powell, just came in with a prose poem on a dance hall suicide."

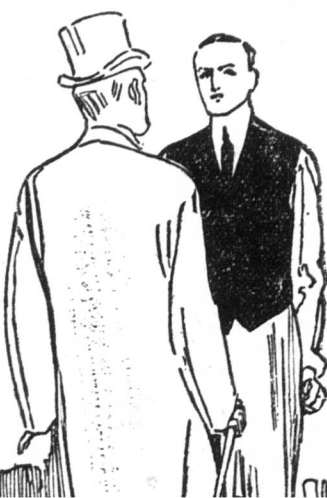

"Let's see it." The managing editor looked at the story, smiling broadly as he did so. "Send him in."

The voice of Edward Dupuy was heard outside.

"Is Mr. Brand in there?"

"Here; you can't go in there," a voice was heard in warning, and Brand looked up.

"Oh, yes, I can," was the cool response, and Dupuy walked in. "Brand,

The typesetting machines clicked on rapidly the words, sentences and paragraphs of the Bartelmy "beat" and the other stories which had to be crowded into the "mail edition." Brand was in his little room at the right, reading the proof of the introduction of the account of the accusation of the United States judge, which introduction he had chosen to write himself.
McHenry, the deposed managing editor and now Brand's assistant, was at the forms with the makeup men.

A boy rushed in with a cut for Mc-Henry. The busy editor squinted at it and waved the boy to one side.
"Why do they send us this baled hay when we've got a live one?" he said disgustfully.

Downs came in from the city room.
"That Clinton street fire is getting better every minute," he said to Mc-Henry. "We ought to have at least four columns on it."

McHenry glared at the speaker.
"Are you crazy, man?" he exclaimed.
"Do you think we use rubber type?
You'll have to keep it in three."

Downs was dissatisfied.
"All right. This shop is going to the negatively. He went out of the composing room.

McHenry went over to one of the makeup stones.

"Where are the cuts for the Chicago and Bryan jump heads? I can't find them anywhere," he asked.

"Here they are," answered one of the makeup men.

"All right. They go there." He pointed to a space in one of the forms as a boy handed him another cut. Mc-Henry held it up to the light and buried into Brand's office with it. He laid it proudly on the managing editor's desk.

"That's a wonder, Mac!" pronounced Brand.

McHenry agreed.

"Yes; you can almost count the money in old Bartelmy's hand!" he exclaimed, and he peered closely once more at the metal slab.

Brand meditated a moment.

"I'm going to change the makeup on that page," he decided. "Put this cut at the top of the page, so that when the papers are folded on the news-stands every one that passes by will see Bartelmy offering a bribe of $10-000 to suppress the truth about himself. Is your story all up yet?"

"Yes. It's in the form."

"Then go finish it off and send it down to the stereotyping room."

McHenry turned away.

"Won't this make the Patriot sick?"
he said as he left. "They'd give the shirts off their backs to beat us on a story like this or to keep us from doing it to them."

As McHenry went out of the door into the composing room Sylvester Nolan dashed into Brand's room from the hall through the other door. The lad was plainly excited, his face showing an amount of animation that, for him, was a decided novelty. His eyes flashed and his breath came in short gasps, indicating that he had been hurrying.

"Where's my father, Mr. Brand?
Where is he?" he gasped.

Brand suspected something of the a sudden thought, he went to the tele-

He placed the receiver at his ear.

It is accordion plaited, and has a number of practical points. It is easy of adjustment, as it clings to the edge of the hat, and it can be conveniently rolled up and carried about in a hand-material may be either tulle or chiffon, but soft chiffon is the most satisfactory. You may have the plaits run any direction that you choose. The sebefore the plaiting is put in.

Brand smiled.

"Oh, we'll try to struggle on."

"The whole thing was a dirty piece of trickery, and we can prove it."

"Go ahead and prove it."

"We'll prove it was a faked picture," snarled the lawyer.

MABEL'S CHITCHAT

Scraggy Necks Avoided if Little Trouble Is Taken.

A CURE FOR "SALT CELLARS."

Love of the Picturesque Makes Medic Collars Both Popular and Scarce In the Shops—They Are Easy to Fashion at Home.

Dear Elsa—Ever since every woman has been displaying her throat swan like and otherwise, I have been swathed in high collars unfashionable and uncomfortable, particularly during the hot weather. I couldn't tempt the funny man who loves to discount pictorially upon feminine "salt cellars" to have one more insane joke at my expense—hence my martyrdom in the just and good cause of appearances.

Well, my dear, I'm happy now and throat free. Now don't misinterpret this remark as Dick did, and look for my head on the couch, but be sensible and listen to what I've got to say on the subject.

To start out in real, advertising fashion: "Nobody need have a scraggy neck if they will take the trouble." What I say is, that I leave subdued my salt cellars and my scraggy neck is a thing of the near past. You know that I am nothing, but "a rag and a bone and a bank of hair," and never could wear a decollete frock with any degree of becomingness.

Now all my friends in sight envy my full, firm throat; I've no loose skin under my chin and not a single sign of a salt cellar.

And the remedies I used were so simple.

An acquaintance who has studied physical culture in Sweden taught me three head and neck exercises which have had such good results that I feel it would be the height of selfishness not to share with you who are of the lean kind too.

When doing the exercises the neck should be quite bare. The best place is to do them in one's kimono, night and morning, and to undo one's blouse at the throat during the day.

Now for the exercises:

First, stand erect, look straight in front of you, then, keeping the body quite still, let the chin sink slowly till it reaches the chest. Raise the chin and move the head backward as far as it will go without strain. Repeat these movements from five to ten times. The great thing to remember is that all head and neck exercises must be done slowly and evenly. Quick jerky movements are useless and dangerous.

Second, raise the chin, hold your head rather in the position of a hen drinking and then turn the head, first to the right as far as it will go, then to the left. Do this five or ten times.

Third, hold the head quite straight and take a series of short, quick breaths, pulling out the base of the throat with each breath. In addition to these exercises you can if you like massage the neck thoroughly with benzoinated lard every night; it makes the skin smooth and white, I have found.

While I'm prating of myself I know

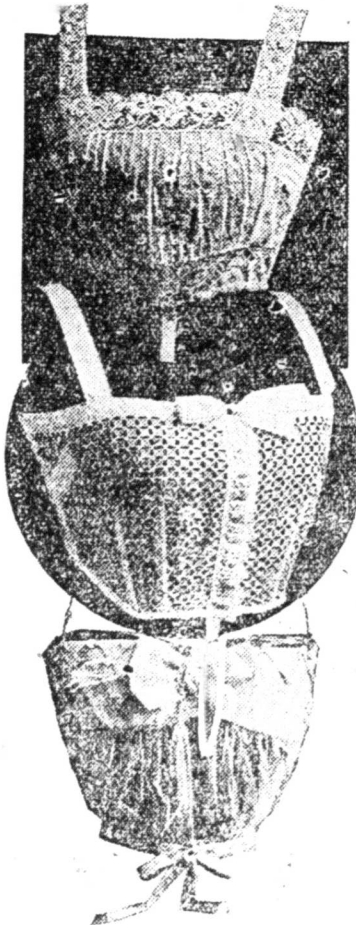

SUMMER BRASSIERES.

Expensive to Buy, They Are Exceedingly Easy and Cheap to Make.

Now that the corsetless figure is in style and corsets are made so low in the bust, the average woman is obliged to wear a brassiere, or in other words, a sort of corset cover that is corded or boned to fit the form.

These brassieres are quite expensive when purchased in the shops, but they are exceedingly easy to fashion at home.

Pictured are three of the very latest effects in these waists. One of them is made from allover strong eyelet embroidery. It consists of nothing more than two front pieces with boned darts and a back portion. To conceal the front closing wide embroidery heading is used down the center through which ribbon is run. A loop is left at the end for securing to the corset. Ribbon is run at the top of the brassier and forms straps over the shoulders. Another one of the brassieres illustrated is more elaborate, being of net with pretty ribbon ornamentations and floral garlands.

The third is of embroidery allover with insertion and lace trimmings.

RICE VARIANTS.

Try a Wreath of Green Peppers Cut In Rings About Dish.

Where the family must be coaxed into a fondness for rice instead of potato, try serving it in some different fashion. A mound of fluffy rice, lightly piled in the center of a platter, is capable of many pleasing variations.

For instance, try a decoration of tiny sprig of parsley. Such an arrangement makes an excellent border around a plate of cold meat or sardines as a luncheon or supper dish.

Chicken livers in brown sauce, broiled calves' liver, creamed codfish or minced meat of any kind are all improved when served with a border of boiled rice, in which case potatoes need not figure in the meal in any form.

A little trick which goes a long way toward the satisfactory serving of rice is the use of a fork rather than a spoon. When cooking the rice should never be stirred with a spoon, but with a fork; when serving, where possible, use two forks instead of a spoon. The spoon crushes the delicate particles and gives the rice a mushy look, which must always be avoided.

TRY COOKING LETTUCE.

Palatable Ways of Serving This Popular Vegetable.

There are so many ways of cooking lettuce that it might almost appear on the table every day in two forms—once as salad and once as a cooked vegetable. One rather unusual way makes use of a sort of lettuce which any amateur grower sometimes raises, much to his despair and regret. This is lettuce that has gone to seed. Let it grow eighteen inches tall, strip the stalk of all leaves and cut the stalk in inch pieces. Boil these until they are tender and serve them with a well seasoned cream sauce. Lettuce served in this way is truly delicious.

Lettuce boiled like any other green and served chopped with butter, pepper and salt is also very good. It should be tender and fresh before it is cooked if it is to be tender and delicious when it is served.

Lettuce cooked like greens in the following way is worth trying: Boil it in salted water until it is very tender. Then drain in a colander and chop it fine. Measure a tablespoonful of butter and half as much flour for each quart of the greens and blend them in a frying pan, adding the lettuce when the butter and flour are smooth. After four or five minutes' stirring add salt, pepper and a quarter of a cupful of cream. Stir until the cream is hot and serve.

GROWING A TREE C

Adds to Value of a Farm and Money Return in Time

Eight years ago we planted tulip trees on one acre, says president of Farm and Fires, now I know that the larger profit have been obtained by planting that number. These trees were year-old seedlings. The grove was planted and prepared as care for a corn crop and the young trees carefully cultivated for two years. Since which time no time has been spent on them, except a few hours in cutting off the lower branches. The trees are now eight inches in diameter and about twenty feet high. There are now on the ground at least 15 cents. This is not a very large amount, but it is a very small amount of labor expended. But we know now that it was a very wasteful process to cut young trees, because there is a second post to each tree at Third, hold the head quite straight and take a series of short, quick breaths, pulling out the force of the throat with each breath. In addition to these exercises you can if you like massage the neck thoroughly with tension till hard every night; it makes the skin smooth and white, I have found.

While I'm prating of myself I know this, honey, that you are just dying to learn why I have not sent you a parcel post the Medici collar you wanted. Well, here's the reason: they're tremendously hard to find, for you must know that these picturesque neck adorns are having a wonderful popularity this season and it's almost impossible to get a Medici at a reasonable price at this late day. The dressmakers are therefore reaping a harvest for a well-shaped Medici collar of fine lace or embroidered batiste has become the stamp of an exclusive costume turned out by a private dress-maker.

Yet they are so easy to make that you, then, could turn one out in an hour or so. All they require is skillful wiring, for the effect must be soft and the flare just right.

Plaited frills and shaped lingerie materials can be bought as cheaply as 25 cents a yard. They are to be basted inside a coat collar or a dressy blouse waist. Such a finish is dainty and becoming particularly on a coat, as it keeps the unbecoming collar from close contact with the skin.

Until you hear from your very negligent friend use one of these frilly expedients and bless yours devotedly.

Where the family must be coaxed into a fondness for rice instead of potato, try serving it in some different fashion. A mound of fluffy rice, lightly piled in the center of a platter, is capable of many pleasing variations.

For instance, try a decoration of green peppers, cut in rings and cooked until tender in slightly salted water. Lay these green rings in an interlaced row, well up on the mound of rice. The effect will be found exceedingly good, and the peppers will also add a delicious bit of flavor to the rice when served together.

Pimientos cut in strips and dropped for a few minutes into boiling water make another excellent garnish for boiled rice, the pieces being scattered irregularly around the edge as a border. A sprinkling of finely chopped parsley over the mound of rice is pretty as well as appetizing, and a few spoonfuls of minced boiled ham lightly strewn over the rice is an improvement to the appearance of the dish as well as a piquant addition to the taste.

Tomatoes are also to be recommended in connection with the serving of rice. Cut them in medium slices, dip in flour and fry on both sides. A standing row of these tomato slices, supported against the center of rice and with a sprig of parsley here and there, makes an attractive dish.

Tomatoes cut in halves, baked or sauted in butter until tender, are good when each half is heaped with a big spoonful of boiled rice topped with a

NEW FRIENDSHIPS.

The "Open Sesame" of Good Fellowship Is Kindness and Sympathy.

A young married woman with her husband was about to leave the town in which she had been born, raised and married, to make her home in another state where an excellent business opportunity had been offered to her husband. On the eve of departure she was expressing to some of her friends her regret at leaving, and assuring them that never would she find in her new home the valued and loving friends from whom she was going away. Her old grandfather heard her, and putting a hand on her shoulder, he said:

"My dear, when you go to your new home take with you one thing. Show to every one with whom you come in contact that kindness and sympathy which is their due, and most important of all, respect the rights of others, and you will find no lack of friends and neighbors in your new home town."

The young bride took his advice, and in the new town where she and her husband make their home they find that this policy has made them friends by the score. In these words of wisdom of the old grandfather lay the key to their happiness in their new home.

The Madonna Fichu.

Why the madonna fichu is so called nobody seems to know, but at any rate it makes a satisfactory covering for the blouse of ugly cut or evil fit, since it conceals most of the back and front and a goodly portion of the sleeve tops.

The madonna fichu actually is a shoulder cape, with a deeply rounded back reaching to the belt, and so broad is it at the shoulders that its lower edge terminates halfway between the top and the elbow of the sleeves.

The front tabs, instead of tapering, continue broad for their entire length and have square ends which come flatly against the figure and are fastened to some part of the frock by invisible hooks and eyes.

An Easy Egg Dish.

Mix equal quantities of water and good veal gravy, two tablespoonfuls of each, with a teaspoonful of vinegar and a seasoning of pepper and salt. Put the whole in a stewpan, and stir in gradually the yolks of two well-beaten eggs. When it thickens, and before it boils, have ready half a dozen nicely poached eggs. Pour the sauce over them, garnish with parsley and serve promptly. This is an excellent emergency dish, and only takes about ten minutes to prepare.

A Girl's Bedroom.

French gray wall paper in soft satin finish is exquisitely charming for a young girl's bedroom. The background of gray is lovely for pink and blue flowered hangings and furnishings.

But we know how that it would be very wasteful process to cut young trees, because there is a second post to each tree at one we could use, and in six more three posts per tree can without any doubt.

Photograph by Ohio agricultural experiment station.

GOOD STAND OF TIMBER.

We have this plan outlined in future of the grove. In the next years we will cut about 300 poorer trees and use them. They leave the 500 best trees to grow larger size. By the time the fourteen or fifteen years old the make three posts to the tree, there will be 1,500 posts on the. Then we will cut 200 trees, in 600 posts, leaving 300 trees to grow telephone pole size, when they worth $1.50 each if there is a variance in price. There would then total of $450 worth from the acre sides, the thinnings for posts for purposes come in conveniently.

Eight years ago I made this estimate at a forestry meeting many thought I was too optimistic now we have the trees to show for first part of the estimate, and it come up to our expectations as for the next ten years we will be listed.

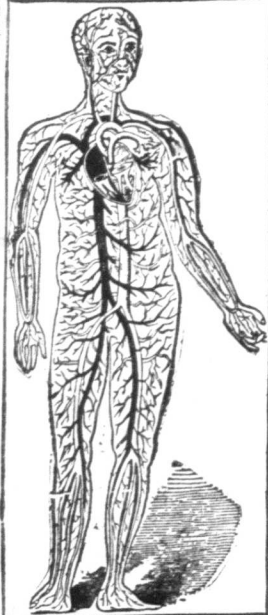

We have planted each year since now have good trees of different sizes growing on five acres of land farm which otherwise would be out any timber supply.

GROWING OF SEASONINGS.

Green Herbs Should Be Gathered Before Day Becomes Very Warm.
Green herbs if freshly and properly gathered are richest in flavoring substances and when added to sauces, fricassees, stews, etc., reveal their freshness by their particles as well as by their decidedly finer flavor. In salads they almost entirely supplant both the dried and the decocted herbs since their fresh colors are pleasing to the eye and their crispness to the palate, whereas the specks of the dried herbs would be objectionable, and both these and the decoctions impart a somewhat inferior flavor to such dishes.
No matter in what condition or for what purpose they are to be used the flavors of foliage herbs are invariably best in well developed leaves and shoots still in full vigor of growth. With respect to the plant as a whole these flavors are most abundant and pleasant just before the flowers appear. Since they are generally due to essential oils which are quickly dissipated by heat they are more abundant in the morning than after the sun has reached the zenith.
As a general rule, therefore, best results with foliage herbs, especially those to be used for drying and infusing, may be secured when the plants seem ready to flower, the harvest being made as soon as the dew has dried and before the day has become very warm. The leaves of parsley, however, may be gathered as soon as they attain that deep green characteristic of the mature leaf. Since the leaves are produced continuously for many weeks the mature ones may be removed every week or so, a process which encourages the further production of foliage and postpones the appearance of the flowering stem.—American Agriculturist

USES OF CRIMSON CLOVER.

Value and Limitations of Plant as Described In Government Bulletin.
Probably the most important characteristic of crimson clover is its ability to grow and make its crop during the season when the land is not occupied by the ordinary summer grown crops. In sections where it succeeds, crimson clover can be sown following a grain crop or in an intertilled crop in late summer and will mature a hay crop the following spring in time to plow the land for spring seeded crops, such as corn or cotton. It may even be held for seed as far north as central Delaware and the stubble be plowed under in time for seeding the quick maturing strains of corn. It may be turned under for soil improvement when only six inches high if it is desired to fit the land for early spring seeded crops.
Even if only the stubble be turned under the effect upon the succeeding crop will be marked, especially if the soil be deficient in nitrogenous fertilizers. The plowing under the entire plant, however, will more rapidly correct any deficiency of nitrates or humus in the soil. It is one of the best cover crops for use in orchards and, in

TO BENEFIT OTHER SUFFERERS

You May Publish My Letter About "Fruit-a-tives"

Mr. Jones is proud to acknowledge the great debt of gratitude he owes "Fruit-a-tives". He is glad to have his letter published in order that other sufferers may be induced to try these wonderful tablets made of fruit juices.
SARNIA, ONT., FEB. 5th. 1911
"I have been a sufferer for the past 25 years with Constipation, Indigestion and Catarrh of the Stomach. I tried many remedies and many doctors, but derived no benefit whatever. Finally, I read an advertisement for "Fruit-a-tives". I decided to give "Fruit-a-tives" a trial and they did exactly what was claimed for them. I have now taken them for some time and find they are the only remedy that does me good. I have recommended "Fruit-a-tives" to a great many of my friends, and I cannot praise these fruit tablets too highly"

the best methods of establishing a stand of crimson clover upon a farm.
Crimson clover is frequently called "scarlet clover" and, somewhat less commonly, "German clover," "Italian clover," "French clover," "incarnate clover," "annual clover," etc.
Crimson clover cannot ordinarily survive the severe winters of the northern states. In the northern sections where a fall seeded legume is desired it is suggested that hairy vetch seeded with rye be used instead.
Crimson clover is a "winter annual"—that is, it ordinarily makes its early growth in the autumn, passes the winter in a somewhat dormant but green state, makes a very early spring growth and matures its seed and dies before summer. It makes little or no growth in very hot weather and therefore should not be sown in the spring, except in the extreme north, where it may make a satisfactory growth by autumn, so that a hay crop may be taken from it at that time.

FARMER-BUSINESS MAN.
Farm and Fireside says: "Many farmers are a great success at growing crops, but they fall down miserably when it comes to getting the money out of these crops. What we need at the present time more than any other one thing is better business talent on the part of our farmers."

A representative of Decbul Tools, Limited, met a number of the town council on Wednesday evening. The firm manufacture tools and cutlery, and wish to move from Montreal to some place in Ontario. They require five acres of land and a building about 200 x 50 feet. They now employ about twenty-five hands and expect to employ more in a new situation. The company would like a free site, fixed assessment, definite rates for electric power, water and gas, also a bonus.

The death occurred on Saturday night of Mrs. Frank Milling, youngest daughter of William Brandon, Richmond. Mrs. Milling had been ill since spring of lung trouble, and a few days ago she suffered a hemorrhage, after which she sank rapidly. She leaves, besides her husband, one little son, about six months old, three sisters, Mrs. Hawley, Mrs. Sampson, Napanee; and Mrs. Schell, Humboldt, Sask., and two brothers, John Q. and William Brandon, Humboldt, Sask.

At the Napanee Driving Park on Saturday afternoon the students of the Deaf and Dumb Institute, Belleville, defeated the Napanee Collegiate Institute senior team by the score of 2 to 1 in a well-played game of football. The victory of the Belleville boys is worthy of note as the Napanee team has not been defeated on their home grounds for a number of years. Six years ago Sydenham high school defeated the collegiate team by a score of 2 to 0, but since that nothing has beaten Napanee. It is also worthy of note that the Belleville boys were students of the Deaf and Dumb Institute and displayed a clever knowledge of the finer points of the football game.

Union Evangelistic Services.

Next Sunday, October 12th, Grace and Trinity Methodist Churches will begin a series of evangelistic services. The pastors will be assisted by the Rev. H. T. Crossly, the noted evangelist. For many years the names of Hunter and Crossly have been household words throughout a good part of the American continent. Few evangelists, if indeed any, of this generation have had greater success in leading men and women to enter upon a christian life. Under the intense strain of a quarter of a century's arduous work, Hunter's health has failed, but Crossly is still full of his old time vigor and will enter upon his loved work here next Sunday with every expectation of his old time success. The choirs of the two churches will lead the service of song. Mr. Crossly will preach in Trinity Church next Sunday morning. In the evening the two congregations will meet in Grace church and the services will be continued in that church every evening during the week with the exception of Saturday evening. Everybody will be made welcome at these services.

Result of Seed Distribution.

Last Spring the Napanee Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture distributed 3 lb. samples of pedigree seeds. From reports being received many of the farmers who obtained these seeds have had excellent yields. Mr. Donald Rikely, Hawley, threshed 108 lbs. Lincoln oats from the 3lb. sample given him. Mr. Ralph Parks dug 84 lbs. of Canadian Standard late potatoes from the 3 lbs. planted. Robt. W. Longmore, Reeve of Camden East, brought into the Agricultural Office a Canadian Standard potato weighing 19 ounces, and stated that he had a number weighing over a pound. His total yield was 68 lbs. Mr. J. J. Brickley, Marysville, brought 2 bushels of O. A. C. No. 21, Barley, and threshed seventy bushels. A special bred-to-lay strain of White Wyandotte eggs were distributed last spring to school children. Master Louis Lloyd, Silsville school, received 12 eggs and hatched 8 chicks. He had 3 cockerels and 5 pullets. The pullets commenced laying about the 22nd of September at the age of less than five months. The distribution of pedigree seed and eggs will be continued next spring by the Agricultural Office, Napanee.
